

Dr. Melita Petrossian, Advisory Board Member

Dr. Melita Petrossian is a fellowship-trained neurologist and movement disorders specialist and is the Director of the Pacific Movement Disorders Center located at Providence Saint John's Health Center. Dr. Petrossian's focus is on a multidisciplinary approach to these movement disorders. In coordination with physical therapists, occupational therapists, speech therapists, and other specialists as necessary she treats motor and non-motor symptoms of PD and other movement disorders. In addition, Dr. Petrossian serves as principal investigator for clinical trials seeking to improve treatment of essential tremor, PD, and dementia with Lewy bodies. She is a member of the American Academy of Neurology (AAN) and Movement Disorders Society (MDS).